" Mirror of Modernity: Invented Traditions of Modern Japan ...

This is the mirror image of an invented tradition. So far as I know, historians haven't discussed this ploy, and there is no standard term for it.2 So, provisionally, I'm calling these "timeworn futures." I'll discuss some entertaining examples of invented traditions and timeworn futures later in this page.

Invented traditions and timeworn futures | Meaningness

But the invented tradition of viewing Edo-as-tradition—"the way we (Japa-nese) once were"—remained the desired object of modern memory As a historical time, Edo was the immediately proximate past of Meiji, meaning that it was temporally linked to modernity by its beforeness as well as its pastness.

Gluck, The Invention of Edo - Mirror of Modernity Invented ...

The invention of tradition is a concept made prominent in the eponymous 1983 book edited by Eric Hobsbawm and Terence Ranger. In the Introduction, Hobsbawm argues that many "traditions" which "appear or claim to be old are often quite recent in origin and sometimes invented."They distinguish the "invention" of traditions in this sense from "starting" or "initiating" a tradition which does not ...

Invented tradition - Wikipedia

The modern mirror was invented hundreds of years ago, but the invention of reflective glass or metal mirrors goes back thousands of years.
